Bulletins Nos. 18 and 19 of the West Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station have just been received. No. 18 contains the act concerning commerclal fertilizers. This requires all fertilizers sold in this state to be analyzed at the experiment station, and that every bag of fertilizer shall bear a tag, furnished by the station, giving the essential ingredients the brand contains, and its commercial value per ton in dollars and cents. Any manufacturer or vender offering for rale any commercial fertilizer in this state without having samples previously analyzed and securing a certificate from the director, will be fined, upon conviction, not less than $50 or more than $500.

The bulletin also contains the affidavit required; directions for taking samples of lertilizers; instructions to manufacof lertilizers; instructions to manufacturers and general agents; valuations for ingredients, and a table showing the results of the analysis of 85 brands complying with the law of 1891, and giving their value per ton based upon the value of the ingredients found.
This table shows that 27 per cent of the brands of commercial fertilizer sold in

The INTELLIGENCER understands that bulletins upon "Experiments with Fertilizers on Potatoes and Tomatoes." "Mothods of Dealing with Injurious Insects and Plant Diseases," and several others of importance to our farmers are being made ready for publication.

The mailing list of the bulletins is now being revised, and hereafter they will only be sent to those who ask for them; however, a name and address once placed on the new list, by request, will remain there, and have a copy of all future bulletins sent to it free of cost until ordered to be changed or removed. ### AROUND THE FARM.

There are other ways in which an refere are other ways in which an orchard may be valuable besides in the single item of its fruit product. As a shelter or wind-break for the protection of other crops it is sometimes worth a great deal, and if forests induce rainfall, why will not orchards serve the same purpose?

A single article of food may contain all elements necessary to sustain life and promote growth; yet it does not follow that its use would be economical. It may contain some elements in excess of needs of the animal. That is why we are looking for "properly balanced" rations.

Feeding the trees well in order to reeding the trees well in order to make their produce, and then spraying systematically in order to have sound fruit, are the essentials toward profita-ble orcharding. A good crop of strictly fine fruit is not often produced at a loss. Those men who say the curculio is a benefactor to the fruit-grower have a happy faculty of looking on the bright side of things. They claim he prevents over-production. Individually we would choose over-production as the lesser evil.

Experiments at the Texas Experiment Station show that the milk which, with ordinary feed for the cows, would pro-duce seventy pounds of butter, would produce eighty-two pounds when the cows were fed cotton-seed meal.

E. S. Leagarden reports in the Farm, Field and Stockman, that by planting corn and potatoes together in the same field -two rows of each alternately. crop of corn can be grown and a half crop of potatoes.

There are over 400 fertilizer factories in the United States, which produce more than $20,000,000 worth of fertilizers Less than a half century a fertilizer factory had not been heard of.

It is estimated that the three beet sugar factories of California, the two in Nebraska and the one at Salt Lake City, will each produce 3,000,000 pounds of sugar during the present season.

The one great misfortune which causes more good work to go to waste in this world than anything else is the want of a definite plan.

Among the distinct classes of the old scarlet or fish geranium may now be enumerated the bedding geranium proper, including single and double, from the most intense scarlet to white, pink and salmon in many intermediate colors and shades. Park gardeners do not like to risk new hinds until satisfied of their value after considerable trial in propagating beds.

The tri-colored Section.

The tri-colored Section is the most beautiful of all, but unfortunately does not stand our hot suns very well. They thrive in a greenhouse or window, and a leaf, with its intense scarlet, yellow and white in zones and splashes, renders the plant a bouquet in itself. This very distinct class first originated as a sport, which means a branch which came with this marking and afterward reproduced others from seed. There are both gold and silver tri-colors in their markings. their markings.

The Temptation

To go out of doors in rough weather is not strong, but we are, many of us, compelled to face rough weather frequently. Diseases which arise from achill are peculiar to no season of the year. This is true, therefore there should be in the closet of every household—what! Not an unmedicated stimulant, absolutely devoid of anything but an excitive action, but a tonic combining, in the effective form of an invigorant sud an alterative, the quality of defonce against chauges of weather. Hostester's Stomach litters has three or four proporties that no other article of its class possesset. Not only does it relieve the complaints which it eventually cures if ortifies the system sgainst the bad effects of changes of temperature, fatally and too often shown in the deadly form of 'is grippe,' it produces a radical change in the weakened condition of a system peculiarly inable to be attacked by it, and it tends to provide against the danger resulting from an imporerished condition of the blood and a disordered state of the liver or bowels.
